

Sarah Cook CV

Sarah Cook is an Asia Research Analyst at Freedom House and Assistant Editor for the Freedom on the Net index. Her research has covered human rights and media developments in East Asia, Indochina, and the Middle East. Her comments and writings have appeared on CNN, The International Herald Tribune, the Taipei Times, and the Far Eastern Economic Review, among others. Before joining Freedom House, she co-edited the English translation of A China More Just, a memoir by prominent rights attorney Gao Zhisheng, and was twice a delegate to the United Nations Human Rights Commission meeting in Geneva for an NGO working on religious freedom in China. She received a B.A. in International Relations from Pomona College and as a Marshall Scholar, completed a Masters degree in Politics and an LLM in Public International Law at the School of Oriental and African Studies in London. Sarah Cook Asia Research Analyst and Assistant Editor, Freedom on the Net.

Freedom House 120 Wall Street, Floor 26 New York, NY 10005 Tel:
212.514.8040 x30 Fax: 212.514.8055 cook@freedomhouse.org
www.freedomhouse.org